

WINGRAM APPLICATIONS

PRIVACY POLICY

Privacy and data protection are important to the Wingram community. Transparency is, too. We've done our best to cut through the legal jargon and explain in simple terms what information we collect about you, what we use it for, and the few situations in which we share it with others.

Please read this privacy policy carefully. It applies to all interactions you have with Wingram's products and services.

THE INFORMATION WE COLLECT

Wingram is responsible for the data you provide through our products and services. When you create an account with Wingram, you give us your full name and email address, and create a username and password.

If you don't feel like creating an account from scratch, you may be able to sign in through an account you already have with another service, such as Facebook or Google.

Your user profile helps you customize your account and connect with other Wingram users. Your profile automatically includes your name and username. You can also add a profile picture and whatever else you'd like in the "Bio" field.

To help you connect with other Wingram users, to personalise your Wingram experience and to ship the products you win, we may ask for additional information, including your contacts or location.

We receive some other information automatically when you use Wingram. This includes data about your device, software, operating system, operating system-provided device IDs or user-specific advertising IDs for advertisement tracking ("Advertising IDs"), your IP address and the date and time of each request you make to Wingram.

So that we can make your Wingram experience better, we collect information about how you view interact with content through Wingram.

You may link your Wingram account to other services you use, such as social networking sites, photo-sharing services and media publishers such as Twitter, Facebook. If you connect your Wingram account with a third-party service, we collect information through that service. This information varies depending on the service and your privacy settings there, but may include profile information (e.g., age, gender and location), your contacts on that service and content that you've made publicly available there.

If you want to email something you see through Wingram to a friend who isn't already a Wingram account holder, we may keep their email address for the purpose of sending such email and improving our services. Recipients may contact us at privacy@wingram.app to request that we remove this information from our database.

HOW WE USE AND DISCLOSE YOUR INFORMATION

A big part of Wingram is sharing content you find interesting. That's why your Wingram profile, the people and sources you follow or that follow you, the posts you create, the comments you post and the content you Wing (like) are all public.

If you don't want to see a specific content or user you can Report it or Block the user through the dedicated menu. Otherwise you can write an email to report@wingram.app and let us know about the specific post or user you want to report.

Aside from that, we use your information to keep Wingram running, better understand how you use our service, customise your experience (including the content, marketing materials, and advertisements you see), prevent abuse and improve Wingram.

We share your personally identifiable information only under these circumstances:

- With your consent, after letting you know what information will be shared, and with whom.
- If we believe it's reasonably necessary to comply with a law, regulation or legal process. If we're going to release your information, our policy is to provide you with reasonable advance notice under the circumstances unless we're prohibited from doing so by law or court order (e.g., an order under 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b)). We may disclose your information without giving you prior notice if we believe it's necessary to prevent imminent and serious bodily harm to a person. Nothing in this privacy policy is intended to limit any legal objections or defenses you might have to efforts by third parties to compel disclosure of your information, including legal orders from the government.
- To third parties helping us offer and improve our service, such as those providing Wingram certain technical tools and analytics services (including marketing partners) that help us understand how people use Wingram so we can make it better. We require those companies to observe the limitations in this privacy policy.
- If we sell, transfer or otherwise share some or all of our assets, including the information identified in this privacy policy, in connection with a merger, acquisition, reorganization or sale of assets in the event of a bankruptcy. We may also share non-personally identifiable, non-aggregate information (for example, anonymized Advertising IDs) with companies that help us improve our products and services, including advertising (such as research companies and analytics providers). As with your personally identifiable information, we require that such companies observe the limitations in this privacy policy.

We may disclose aggregate information about how our users use Wingram in a manner that doesn't identify you individually.

If you win a prize, we will share your information with Amazon in order to deliver the prize to your address. Therefore you authorize Wingram to do so and you accept the Terms & Conditions of Amazon's Service and Privacy Policy.

WEB STORAGE AND TRACKING POLICY

Cookies and HTML5 local storage are ways to keep information about your use of Internet services on your own mobile device or computer.

We use cookies and HTML5 local storage to help us create your session, know when you're logged in and help us remember certain information about how you interact with Wingram.

If you'd rather not use cookies or HTML5 local storage, most browsers give you the option to turn them off, or require your approval before using them to keep information. If you choose not to keep information in cookies or HTML5 local storage, though, portions of Wingram may not work as intended.

Some browsers make it possible for you to signal that you don't want your Internet browsing activity to be tracked. The Internet community hasn't reached a consensus on how to best honor these signals, so we don't respond to Do-Not-Track requests at this time.

You can learn more about these options, or submit a request, by contacting Wingram Support at privacy@wingram.app. For security, privacy, or operational reasons, Wingram may only respond to valid requests when required by law or regulation.

DATA RETENTION AND DELETION

We store your personal data as long as your account exists or as necessary to provide our services to you. This includes data you or others provide to us and data generated from your use of our services. If you'd like to delete your account, you can do so in the Wingram application under Settings (gear icon) in the Edit Profile detailed menu. If you delete your account, your user profile will no longer be visible on our service, though we may still keep some log information in non-personally identifiable form.

DATA STORAGE OUTSIDE THE EU

As a Switzerland-based company, we store and use personal data outside the EU. To ensure adequate protection of personal data in cross-border transfer and/or processing, we use appropriate safeguards as allowed under applicable law or regulation.

CHANGES TO THIS PRIVACY POLICY

As Wingram continues to develop, we may decide to revise this privacy policy from time to time. The most current version will govern our use of your information and will always be at <https://wingram.app/privacy>, and older versions are available upon request. If we make changes that we think will substantially alter your rights, we will notify you by posting a notice on our website or application. You agree to accept any changes or revisions to this privacy policy by continuing to use Wingram.
